FOREWORD

The events which followed the abduction and mysterious disappearance of William Morgan in September, 1826, form an important chapter in American history, not alone on account of their effect upon the Masonic Institution, but also because of their influence upon the social, political and religious affairs of a large part of the country, some of these effects existing down to the present day.

While the disappearance of Morgan was not the only cause of the Anti-Masonic excitement of 1826-1840, it was the immediate incident which kindled the fire, the fuel for which was already laid.

Because of its importance from both a Masonic and a political standpoint, what is commonly referred to as the "Morgan Affair" has maintained its interest over the years that have passed since it occured.

An immense volume of material has been written and printed both from the Masonic and the Anti-Masonic standpoints. Tons of paper and barrels of ink have been expended pro and con, much of which has been wasted, many of these publications being of little value or utility.

During some thirty years of close attention to the subject every available book, pamphlet and document has been consulted. As a result of this work and with the hope of facilitating the studies of those interested, the appended list has been compiled.

That it is entirely complete is not claimed and should not be expected, for among the mass of fugitive material which has appeared some is practically certain to have been overlooked. It is believed, however, that all publications of real importance have been included and that this is the most comprehensive list so far compiled. It is offered as a source book with the sincere desire that other students of the period will find it helpful.

The arrangement of the various titles is not in strict accordance with approved library practice, but as the work will be chiefly used by those unfamiliar with such library classification, they will find the arrangement better suited to their purpose.

The notes appended to the various titles represent the writer's own impressions concerning them, and he is well aware that some will differ from him in his summation of these works.

Bibliographical notes are appended only to the more important items. In many instances the title of the work gives a definite clue as to its nature, and a large number of the titles are simply fugitive material of no real importance other than displaying the bias of the writer.

Newspaper and magazine articles are not cited except such as contain matter of special importance which has not appeared in book or pamphlet form.

This bibliography is confined exclusively to books, pamphlets, etc., which have been printed in English or have appeared in English translation, no mention being made of the considerable number of foreign Anti-Masonic works which (except when they are reprints of English or American works) have little or no bearing on the Anti-Masonic troubles in the United States.

It has seemed advisable that information should be furnished regarding the libraries in which the rarer items may be found. A large number of the titles listed are in the personal collection of the writer. Other collections in which they may be found are indicated by the following code-letters immediately following the description of the work.

S.—Supreme Council Library, Washington, D. C. I.—Iowa Grand Lodge Library, Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

P.—Grand Lodge Library, Philadelphia, Pa. M.—Grand Lodge Library, Boston, Mass.

N.—New York City Public Library.

NH.-Library of the New York Historical Society, N. Y. City.

NS.—New York State Library, Albany, N. Y. U.—Union College Library, Schnectady, N. Y. W.—Wisconsin Historical Society Library.

A small edition of this work was published some years ago by the North Carolina Lodge of Research No. 666. This has long been out of print, and the frequent requests for copies which cannot be supplied would seem to justify its republication, which is being undertaken by The American Lodge of Research in New York.

A Bibliography of Anti-Masonry

Adams, John Quincy

- -Letters on the Masonic Institution. 8vo. 284 p. Boston, 1847.
- -Separate Letters, Lancaster, 1832, Providence, 1833, Granby, 1832.
- —Letters addressed to William L. Stone, Esq., of New York, and to Benjamin Cowell, Esq., of Rhode Island, upon the subjects of Masonry and Anti-Masonry. Providence, printed by Edward and J. Cory, 1833. pp 24.

Also contains "A portrait of Masonry," by John C. Spencer. See Spencer, John C.

- —Letters of Hon. John Quincy Adams, on the Nature of Masonic Oaths, Obligations and Penalties, to Col. William L. Stone, Edward Livingston and others. Philadelphia, William S. Young, 1867. pp. 130.
- —Letters on Freemasonry, by John Quincy Adams, late President of the United States. Hartford, 1833. pp. 32.
- —Six Letters from John Quincy Adams to Edward Livingston, on Masonry, Philadelphia. C. T. Jones, 1833. pp. 32.
- -Letters on the Entered Apprentice's Oath, by John Quincy Adams, demonstrating that the first step in Masonry is wrong. Stereotype edition. Printed by the Young Men's Anti-Masonic Association for the diffusion of truth. Boston, 1833. pp. 24. New Bedford, 1833.

These letters written with a strong political and Anti-Masonic bias, had a wide circulation, probably due to the high standing of the author as a citizen. Being a non-Mason, Adams had to depend upon Anti-Masonic writers for his information concerning Masonry, consequently his opinions are not of much value. The various letters (some 30 in all) were published at the time of writing by many newspapers. About 1835, Adams ceased all active opposition to the Masonic Institution.

McCarthy refers to Adams' Diary as a valuable source, not only for his own personal opinions, but for an insight into the politics of Massachusetts.

(S. I. P.-Except Granby 1832 and Lancaster 1832-U.)

Address to the People of the State of New York. (Signed by a large number of people at Albany, April 26, 1831.) Printed at Palmyra, N. Y. (S.)

Address to the Freemasons of Monroe County, to the Public, on returning their Charters, adopted by a Convention of Delegates from Several Lodges, held in Rochester, on Friday, thirteenth of March, 1829. Rochester, 1829. pp. 11.

The chief point made in this address is that it is the duty of good citizens to yield to public opinion, this being the reason assigned for surrendering their charters to the Grand Lodge.

(M. NS.)

Address to all Honest Masons. By "A Mason" (pseud.)

Originally printed in eight numbers of the LeRoy, N. Y., "Gazette". Reprinted by Bernard (who was probably the author) in his "Light on Masonry".

ALLYN, AVERY

- -Book of Oaths and Penalties. Philadelphia, 1831.
- —A Ritual of Freemasonry. Illustrated by Numerous engravings, with Notes and Remarks, to which is added a Key to the Phi Beta Kappa. Boston and Philadelphia, 1831; New York, 1860 and 1865. Also editions in 1852 and 1854. Still in print.

Allyn may have been the originator of the "Howard Myth", claiming that one Richard Howard was the murderer of William Morgan, and that he was concealed for a time by the Masons of New York, who ultimately supplied him with funds and put him aboard a ship bound for a European port.

"ALMANACS, ANTI-MASONIC."

- -Edward Giddins. 1828-1832. Published at Rochester and Utica.
- —New England Anti-Masonic Almanac (Edw. Giddins) Boston, 1829-1834.
- -New England Anti-Masonic Almanac. (John Marsh) 1831-1835.
- -New England Anti-Masonic Almanac. Published by William Souther, Boston, 1833.
- -The Pennsylvania Anti-Masonic Almanac, (Edw. Giddins) 1830.

-Anti-Masonic Sun Almanac, (Avery Allyn) 1831-1833.

Various other Anti-Masonic Almanacs were published in the period from 1828 to 1835. They were cheaply printed, crudely illustrated and amusing rather than instructive. The Anti-Masonic Sun Almanac is the most interesting of the lot. Apparently these almanacs had a rather wide circulation.

"AMERICAN QUARTERLY REVIEW."

In the American Quarterly Review of March 1830 (7:13, pages 162-168) appeared a review of Brown's "Narrative" under the running title "Anti-Masonry." There is also a 40 page pamphlet entitled "Free-Masonry", in reply to "Anti-Masonry" in the American Quarterly Review for March, 1930, published by John Marsh and Company, Boston, 1830.

(I. NS. P.)

Ancient (The) Order of Freemasonry and Liberty of Conscience opposed to Bigotry and Superstition. By a candid man. New York, 1828.

A defensive and controversial pamphlet.

(S.)

Ancient Freemasonry Contrasted with Illuminism or Modern Masonry. By Tubal Cain. Utica, N. Y., 1831.

Curious but wholly unreliable. Attempts to show that Freemasonry in its original form was a beneficial, or at least a harmless institution, but that it had been perverted by adopting the principles of Illuminism.

ANDERTON, SAMUEL G.

—Masonry the Same All Over the World—Another Masonic Murder. Statement made by Samuel G. Anderton, with a Report of a Committee. Boston, 1830. pp. 8.

This is a palpable falsehood. Though proved by Stone (Letter XXXIX) to be wholly untrue, as early as 1832, it is still being used in the writings of Anti-Masonic authors. Morris incorrectly gives the name of the one making this affidavit as Atherton (William Morgan or Political Anti-Masonry, p. 296.)

ANONYMOUS.

- —The Principles of Anti-Masonry illustrated in a series of letters addressed to David Pease. By "Royal Arch". Belchertown, Mass., 1830, pp. 32.
- —The Nature and Fruits of Political Anti-Masonry Practically Exhibited. Northampton, Mass., 1835. pp. 18.

(NS.)

—Reason versus Prejudice. Morgan Refuted; or a Defence of the Ancient and Honourable Institution of Masonry. By a Mason's daughter. Philadelphia, 1828.

An early defensive pamphlet. Though it antedates Brown's "Narrative" (see Brown, Henry), it is purely controversial and of no practical value. Brown's book has therefore been referred to as the "pioneer" Masonic publication on the subject.

-Freemasonry Revealed. Cincinnati, 1849, 32mo. pp. 372.

One of the attempts to revive the Anti-Masonic Excitement which subsided circa 1838.

- —The Presidency (Letter addressed to the "Baltimore Chronicle" and published in that paper; their aim is a concentration of the whole opposition to General Jackson, By an Old Man). N. P. 1831, pp. 45.
- -Masonry the turnpike Road to Happiness in this Life and Eternal Happiness Hereafter. Dublin, 1768.

A curious early defense of Masonry showing that the institution was not without its detractors even at this early date:

-Truth's Proofs that Masonic Oaths do not impose any obligations. Norwich, 1830. pp. 24. (S.)

-Romance of American Masonic History.

In Vols. I, II, and III of "The American Freemason", conducted by J. F. Brennan, New York, 1858-1859. A very readable account of the "Morgan Affair" in which fact and fiction are curiously intermingled.

—A Ritual and Illustrations of Freemasonry. Accompanied by Numerous Engravings. London, n. d. (Reeves and Turner, 196 Strand). 12mo. pp. 254.

This book is a very close copy of Allyn's "A Ritual of Free-masonry".

ANTHONY, JESSE B.

—"The Morgan Excitement." Two chapters in Hughan and Stillson's History of Freemasonry and Concordant Orders. Boston, 1891. Several later editions. Pages 507 to 536 inclusive.

Good but not entirely accurate. Follows quite closely McClenachan's History, but makes the error of locating Wells Lodge No. 282, at Batavia, N. Y. The full title is, "The Morgan Excitement. An Exhaustive Account of that Historic Affair in the United States, written from a Masonic Standpoint." It was written by Past Grand Master, Jesse B. Anthony, of New York.

Many other Anti-Masonic Conventions were held, some of which did not publish any printed proceedings. Among the important ones are, State Convention at Hartford, Feb. 3 and 4, 1830, Convention at Harrisburg, Pa., June 25, 26, 1829, State Conventions of Rhode Island, Sept. 11, 1830, and Jan. 16, 1835. Anti-Masonic State Convention, Montpelier, Vermont, June 23, 1830, Anti-Masonic State Convention, Canton, Ohio, July 23, 1830, Anti-Masonic Territorial Convention, Michigan, June 24, 1830. During the later part of 1830 and in 1831, Anti-Masonic Conventions were called in Kentucky, Alabama, New Jersey and Maine. None of these were of much importance.

"ANTI-MASONIC NEWSPAPERS."

At the National Anti-Masonic Convention, held in Philadelphia, September, 1830, the Committee appointed to inquire what has been the influence of Freemasonry on the public press, reported that there were at that time 983 newspapers in the United States. That 124 of these had been established since 1826, founded exclusively upon the principle of opposition to Freemasonry, distributed as follows:

Pennsylvania																	53
New York																	46
Connecticut																	2
Rhode Island	1																1
Massachusetts

Vermont	4
New Jersey	2
Ohio	-
Indiana	9
Indiana	1
Michigan	1

These were mostly four page sheets, poorly printed on cheap paper. In some cases several were printed at one place, with different names and places of publication, so it is not uncommon to find exact duplicates among them. The following list covers all the more important Anti-Masonic newspapers, with the place of publication.

As a general rule, little of any importance is to be found in these papers. They are chiefly devoted to tirades against the Masonic Institution and attacks again individual Masons. Such material as they contain must be carefully checked against other sources before it is accepted as reliable.

Few of the prominent papers of the country espoused the cause of Anti-Masonry. For the most part, they maintained a dignified silence on the subject, or else treated the matter as a passing fad, promoted by fanatics. William L. Stone's paper, "The Commercial Advertiser," was the most prominent one which took up the Anti-Masonic Cause.

CRANDALL, J. RIGGS

—The Morgan Episode. Pamphlet published by the Committee on Antiquities of the Grand Lodge of the State of New York, 1907. pp. 8.

John Riggs Crandall, M. D., was born in Massachusetts, May 2, 1808, and died at Auburn, California, September 14, 1885. While a young man he located in the Northern part of the State of New York. While at that time he was too young to become a member of the Craft, he took an active interest in its proceedings. He later went West, locating in Illinois, where in 1844, he was initiated in Pekin Lodge, No. 29, Pekin, Ill. In 1845 he was Master of that Lodge. He served as an officer in the Grand Lodge of Illinois, in several stations, including that of Deputy Grand Master. In 1849, he went to California, and in March of that year procured from the Grand Master of Illinois, a dispensation for a traveling Lodge, and in the spring of 1850, organized Laville Lodge, at Marysville, Calif. He was active in Masonic circles in California, and served as Senior Grand Warden, in the Grand Lodge of that State in 1853. The MS was presented to the Grand Lodge of New York, by the Masonic Veteran's Association of the Pacific Coast, in 1907, through their Secretary, Edwin Allen Sherman, who received it from the writer in 1881. In this MS Crandall speaks of spending a night with George W. Harris and family, at Terre Haute, Ind., in April 1845.

(I. NS. P.)

There is another address by Hon. John Crary addresed to "The Anti-Masons of 1828." This is dated, Salem, August 1, 1832. I have been unable to locate this in pamphlet form, but it is reprinted in Vol. XVI, No. 6, of "The Mystic Star" (Detroit, Mich.) In it he condemns the Anti-Masons for departing from the original plan—that of destroying Masonry—and resuscitating the old Adams party, for the benefit of Henry Clay against General Jackson. Crary was Anti-Masonic candidate for Lieutenant Governor of New York, in 1828.

ELA, PAUL F.

—"The Morgan Affair: After One Hundred Years." Article in "The Master Mason" (Washington, D. C.) Vol. III, No. 5, May, 1926, pp.

This article is interesting for its account of the secession of the Wesleyan Methodists from the Methodist Episcopal Church in 1843, because they would not tolerate any such compromise on the question of slavery as appeared to be the probable outcome of the coming General Conference of 1844. When this compromise did not materialize, those who did not go back to the main body of the Church took up Anti-Masonry as one of their cardinal principles.

Three Distinct Knocks, or the Door of the Most Ancient Freemasonry Opening to all Men. By W. C.... V... 1767. London, 6th edition (about 1768). The Samuel G. Lawrence Library Catalogue lists a Dublin edition, n. d.

Laurence Dermott gives a curious and probably fanciful story of how the book, "Three Distinct Knocks," came to be written. This is to the effect that a bricklayer named Daniel Tadpole, having met with ill-success in his trade, turned to music and the stage, in which he was also unsuccessful. On the advice of a friend, a Jew named Balthazer Amraphel, he set out to write something that neither he nor anyone else would understand. He selected Freemasonry for his subject, and with the help of his friend, who furnished some Hebrew words to be used, wrote the pamphlet in question.

- —Hiram, or the Great Master Key to the Door of both Ancient and Modern Freemasonry. 2nd London edition, 1766. 3rd edition, London, 1773. Dublin, about 1775.

These are only the most prominent ones. There were various others, both in English as well as in French and German, but the titles cited serve to show that Morgan's book was by no means the earliest alleged exposition of the secrets of Masonry. Prof. Robison's book, and Jachin and Boaz, were the most popular and had the widest circulation. Some of the others worth mentioning are: "The Secret History of Freemasonry", London, 1725 (Kloss No. 1832); "The Post Boy," London, 1724 or 1725 (Kloss No. 1833); "Masonry Further Dissected," by Samuel Pritchard, London, 1738 (Kloss No. 1838); "Discovery of the Secrets of Masonry," (in "The Scots Magazine, Edinburgh, 1755 (Kloss No. 1885), and "The Catechism of Freemasons", London, about 1745.

Although frequently listed as an Anti-Masonic book, it cannot really be considered as such. The author purports to give partial exposes of various degrees for the purpose of proving his theory of their relation to the Ancient Mysteries, but takes issue with Robison and Barruel as to the evil tendencies of Freemasonry.

FINCH, WILLIAM

-Various Masonic Keys and Elucidations. 1800-1803.

These were published in a peculiar cipher which could only be read by those possessing the "key". According to Dr. George Oliver, Finch was a tailor by trade, and for years notorious as a Masonic imposter. Mackey (Encyclopedia of Freemasonry) says that Finch having been expelled by the Grand Lodge for some misconduct, commenced a system of practical Masonry on his own account. His books are curious and somewhat rare. The complete key for reading them is given in Mackey's Encyclopedia.

FINNEY, CHARLES G.

-Character, Claims and Practical Workings of Freemasonry. Cincinnati, 1869. 16mo. pp. 264.

This book has run through several editions. Bro. Silas H. Shepherd characterizes it as "the last feeble attempt to keep alive the Anti-Masonic feud of the thirties." Interesting as a curiosity, but of no practical value. Finney was a shining example of that type of evangelical piety which regards anything outside its own point of view as Anti-Christian.

By Distinguished Literary Gentlemen, Citizens of the United States, With Introductory Remarks and a Compilation of Records and Remarks, by a Member of the Suffolk Committee. Boston, 1852. 8vo. p. 270.

Gassett personally collected the books referred to and presented them to various Colleges and Institutions. He prefaces his lists by an alleged history of the atrocities perpetrated by Freemasons, in which many unwarranted claims are made. Incidentally, he gives a list of the "Anti-Masonic Declaration of Independence". (LeRoy, July 4, 1828) which contains twenty-six more names than that given in Bernard's "Light on Masonry", stating that these signers were probably not in the Convention, but signed the "Declaration" afterwards as opportunity presented. Quotes a letter by John Quincy Adams which does not appear in his book, and which Gasset claims is in his possession. This book has proved very helpful in locating collections in which some of the more rare Anti-Masonic items could be found.

GENERAL WORKS

More or less material pertaining to the subject is to be found in various biographies, state and local histories. Lodge histories, etc. The more important ones are mentioned specifically in this bibliography. Others which contain incidental references are Clay's Correspondence, Calhoun's Correspondence, the Letters of Jackson, Van Buren, and others. McMaster's "History of the United States" has a short account of the beginnings of Anti-Masonry in New York. Wilson's "History of Pittsburgh (Pa.)" has considerable matter of interest compiled from original sources. State Legislative Journals are often useful, also such documents as Governors' Messages, etc. Where other sources are not available, State Laws and Statutes are occasionally helpful.

GREENE, SAMUEL D.

—The Broken Seal; or Personal Reminiscences of the Morgan Abduction and Murder. Boston, 1870. 12mo. pp. 304. Chicago, 1873.

Greene claimed to have been a member of the same Lodge as William Morgan (Batavia Lodge No. 433) which is clearly false. Greene was a member of this Lodge, having been initiated January 31, 1826, and expelled February 8, 1827, but existing records prove conclusively that Morgan was not a member of that Lodge.

—Appeal of Samuel D. Greene in Vindication of Himself Against the False Swearing of Johnson Goodwill, a Morgan Conspirator, in the Case of Commonwealth vs. Moore and Sevey, Editors of the "Masonic Mirror" (Boston) for a libel on said Greene. Boston, 1834. pp. 64. See Moore and Sevey.

The information relative to the Anti-Masonic Excitement appears in Vol. II, Chapter XXXVIII and XXXIX, beginning at page 369. It is not definitely known who prepared these chapters. The first paragraph of Chapter XXXVIII reads as follows: "Not having myself been personally acquainted with the political action of the party called Anti-Masons, I took the liberty of requesting a gentleman, eminent for his standing and talents, who, during the prevalence of the excitement on the subject of Masonry, resided and still resides in one of our western cities, and who was himself a leading and efficient Anti-Mason, to furnish me with a statement which should present a sketch of the history of that singular political association. He has been so obliging as to send me the following brief account, which I here insert precisely as written out by him." McCarthy ascribes the authorship of these chapters to Frederick Whittlesey. He also says, "In some respects one of the best books on Anti-Masonry in New York. It has two contemporaneous accounts, Hammond's own account is that of a fair-minded National Republican, while Whittlesey's account is colored by his Anti-Masonic beliefs. The somewhat unusual statement is made that Morgan was a printer by trade."

HANNAH, WALTON

-Darkness Visible. London, 1952. 8 vo. pp. 228.

Largely a rehash of the old arguments against Freemasonry, on the grounds that it is not a Christian organization, which indeed it is not. Neither is it Anti-Christian. Deals with the reputed atitude of some of the clergy of the Church of England.

HARRIS, REGINALD V.

—"Initiation of William Morgan." "New York Masonic Outlook", Vol. IX, No. 1, September, 1932. pp. 10-27.

Gives an account of a William Morgan who received the first three degrees of Masonry in Eastern Star Lodge No. 37, of St. Andrews, New Brunswick, Canada. Contains numerous discrepancies as to age, occupation, etc., and is evidently simply a confusion of a not unusual name.

HARRIS, THADDEUS MASON

—Discourses Delivered on Public Occasions, Illustrating the Principles, Displaying the Tendency, and Vindicating the Design of Freemasonry. Charlestown, (Mass.) 1801. 12mo. pp. 344.

Discourses IX, X, and XI, are a very complete defense of Masonry against the objections made to it.

HART, ALBERT BUSHNELL

-Essentials in American History, New York, 1905.

Devotes a single paragraph to the Anti-Masonic Excitement, as folfollows: "People began to tire of personal rivalries in politics, and to look for questions which really divided the nation. After the disappearance and supposed murder of one Morgan, who had revealed secrets of the fraternity of Freemasons, an attempt was made to found an Anti-Masonic Party, in 1827, but opposition to Freemasonry was not a national or a permanent issue." (p. 213.) This is putting the matter altogether too mildly and greatly minimizes the importance of the Anti-Masonic movement.

HOTCHKISS, BERIAH B.

—A Candid Appeal to Professors of Religion.

Gives the following reasons why Masonry is warring against religion.

- 1. It prostitutes the Holy Scriptures to unholy purposes.
- 2. The un-Christian nature of Masonic Oaths.
- 3. The sacreligious nature of Masonic Ceremonies.
- 4. Its religious assumption of titles to which it has no claim.
- 5. Masonry is considered a saving institution, and a religion in the performance of its outward duties.
- 6. The institution is blasphemous.

Jachin and Boaz, or an Authentic Key to the Door of Freemasonry. By a Gentleman belonging to the Jerusalem Lodge. London, 1762. pp.

There was also an edition published at Suffield in 1799, and one at Maidstone, in 1820. Bro. William L. Boyden gives the following American editions of this book: New York, 1796; Albany, 1797; Boston, 1798; New York, 1802; Boston, 1803; New York, 1808; Poughkeepsie, 1811; Lancaster, Pa., 1812 (prefixed to Barruel's "Anti-Christian and Anti-Social Conspiracy); New York, 1814; Poughkeepsie, 1815; Boston, 1825; New York, 1857; New York, 1859. There was a Spanish edition published at Philadelphia, in 1822.

Gassett claims that there was an edition published in Manchester, Vermont, about 1797, and Greene states that David C. Miller was publishing an edition in Saratoga, about 1809. I have been unable to find any such editions.

Dr. George Oliver is authority for the statement that this book was written by one Goodall, a tallow-chandler, while hiding from his creditors, that he received a profit of some £2000 from it, was expelled from the Craft and died in poverty.

KNIGHT, THOMAS A.

—The Strange Disappearance of William Morgan. Brecksville, Ohio. 1932. 8vo. pp. 302.

This writer lays much stress upon the various reports of Morgan having been seen in Smyrna, and attributes the reason for Mrs. George W. Harris (formerly wife of William Morgan) separating from her husband to her belief that Morgan was still alive. Draws largely on Morris's "William Morgan; or Political Anti-Masonry". Writen in popular style with considerable imaginary dialogue. Contains a reprint of Tatsch and Erikson's bibliography and of several interesting and important documents.

LANG, OSSIAN

-Report of Grand Historian. Proceedings of Grand Lodge of New York, 1920. pp. 129-145.

Like most other writers on the subject, Lang states that after his removal to Canada, Morgan operated a small brewery, which was afterwards destroyed by fire. Compare this with J. Ross Robertson's story. States that he visited a Lodge in Batavia. Infers that the refusal to permit him to become a member of the Chapter in Batavia, and the fact that he found himself treated as unfit for fraternal intercourse may have had much to do with the pushing of his plan to expose the ritual work of the Fraternity. This same material is reprinted in Lang's "History of Freemasonry in the State of New York".

LEWISTON COMMITTEE

-A Revelation of Freemasonry as Published to the World by a Convention of Seceding Masons held at LeRoy, Genesee County, New York, on July 4 and 5, 1828. Containing a True and Genuine Development of the Mode of Initiation, and also of the Several Lectures of the following Degrees, to-wit: In the Chapter, Mark Master, Past Master, Most Excellent Master and Royal Arch. In the Encampment, Knight of the Red Cross, Knight Templar, Knight of the Christian Mark and Guards of the Conclave, and Knights of the Holy Sepulchre. In the Ancient Council of the Trinity, Denominated the Holy and Thrice Illustrious, Order of the Cross, The Illustrious and Thrice Illustrious Degrees. Published by the Committee. Rochester, N. Y., Weed and Heron, 1828.

The preface to this work states that a Companion was despatched to reside in the vicinity of the General Grand Lecturer of the United States, Jeremy L. Cross, who attended his lectures until an entire degree was written out. This was denied by Cross, who declared that he never allowed notes to be taken by any of his pupils.

MARSHALL, JOHN

-Opinions of the Late Chief Justice of the United States, John Marshall, Concerning Freemasonry. Pamph. pp. 4. (Letter dated Richmond, July 22nd, 1833, and signed "J. Marshall".)

This is a very rare item. I have located four copies, one in the Grand Lodge Library of Pennsylvania, two in the library of Union College, and one in the State Historical Society of Wisconsin. The originals of these letters, alleged to have been written to Edward Everett, are still in existence, being in possession of the Massachusetts Historical Society, in Boston. Their authenticity has been disputed, and until this is positively determined by competent experts we are justified in disregarding them. They were not made public until after Marshall's death, and seem entirely contrary to what is known of the Masonic activities of the Chief Justice of the United States, who was Grand Master of Masons in Virginia (1793-1795), was a member of the Committee appointed to represent Virginia when the subject of a General Grand Lodge was being discussed, and as late as 1834 was a member of the Board of Trustees appointed by the Grand Lodge of Virginia, looking to the establishment of a school for the purpose of educating the orphan children of Master Masons. That he held this position at the time of his death is shown by the appointment of a successor in 1835, as recorded in the Proceedings of the Grand Lodge of Virginia for that year. Furthermore, the History of Richmond Randolph Lodge No. 19, records that Marshall was interred with the usual Masonic honors.

MITCHELL, J. W. S.

The History of Freemasonry and Masonic Digest. Embracing an Account of the Order from the Building of Solomon's Temple; its Progress Hence Throughout Civilized World to 1858; the Introduction of Modern Degrees called Masonic; and the First Written History of Masonry in the United States. To which are added The Old Charges and Ancient Regulations, as Collated by Order of the Grand Lodge of England, in 1722, also The Spurious Laws as published by Dermott; a Code of Masonic Jurisprudence, illustrated by the Author's Answer to Questions of Law and Usage; a Dictionary of Masonic Terms; Description of Masonic Jewels, Regalia, Etc., Etc., Etc., Marietta, Georgia, Published by the Author, 1859. 2 vols. 8vo. pp. 720, 719, viii.

The most common edition of this work is the third. Three editions were published in 1859, at Marietta, Georgia, and another at Griffin, Georgia, in 1871. Mitchell is not considered as a reliable Masonic historian, though his work contains much that is well worth reading. The Anti-Masonic Period is dealt with in Volume II, Chapter VI, "Anti-Masonry in the United States," pp. 206-236. Mitchell ascribes the entire opposition to Masonry to the Jesuits, which is not at all in keeping with the facts. He considers all Masonic "exposes" as reprints of "Jachin and Boaz", which he claims existed in MS form as early as 926. The book "Jachin and Boaz" was not published until 1762, and is wholly different from previous "exposes" which had appeared. His version of the "Morgan Affair" differs considerably in detail from that of the other Masonic writers, and according to Mitchell was furnished him by L. V. Bierce, of Akron, Ohio. He expresses his belief that Morgan was murdered and that one or more Masons participated in the crime, but ascribes its inception to those interested in the publication and dissemination of Morgan's book. His version of the affair, like the other portions of his History, must be considered as rather fanciful and not in keeping with the facts in the case.

MORGAN, WILLIAM

—Illustrations of Masonry. By one of the Fraternity Who Has Devoted Thirty Years to the Subject. Batavia, N. Y. (Oct. 14), 1826. pp. 84-10

Enoch T. Carson and Rob Morris do not agree on date or place of publication, Carson stating that the first edition was published in Rochester, N. Y., in Oct., 1826. The above place and date have been verified from notice and advertising of the book in the "Republican Advocate" of Batavia, N.Y.

Second Edition, Batavia, 1826; Rochester, 1827. Third Edition, Rochester, 1827; New York, 1827. Fourth Edition, Rochester, 1827. pp. ix-12-96: Parts I, II, III, IV, pp. 68-69-71-72. Third Edition, Printed for the Proprietors, Rochester, 1827; Printed for the Author, New York, 1827.

Innumerable reprints have since been issued. Next to the rare Batavia Edition of 1826, the Third (N.Y.) edition is most difficult to obtain.

-Bibliographical Data

2nd issue: (Batavia, 1826) "Masonry" in smaller solid black face caps. No circle around "L.S." in copyright notice. Page 96 "Mah hah bon." Page numerals have parentheses close together (70).

Third Edition. (Rochester, 1827). 95 pages. (on verso of page 95, not numbered 96). Has a note of trials and sentences of four men for the abdudion of Morgan.

New York Edition, 1828. Very scarce.

Rochester Edition, 1827. Extremely rare. (Introduction added by the publisher "In the absence of the author, etc.)

Circa 1867, one Matthew Gardner came into possession of what purported to be the rituals of the four degrees conferred by Royal Arch Chapters. Assuming these to be authentic he published an edition of Morgan's "Illustrations" containing these rituals as a second part. According to Carson they were written by Marlin Smith and in no way resemble the degrees actually conferred in Capitular Masonry. They are very well written and are an interesting Masonic curiosity. Editions of the "Illustrations" with this addenda are currently in print.

"Morgan Investigator (The)"

Published by David C. Miller at Batavia, N. Y. Twenty-six numbers were issued, beginning March 29, 1827. There were none published from August 2, 1827 (No. 19), to September 20, 1827 (No. 20). The last issue was Nov. 1, 1827, in which Miller announced its discontinuance.

Morganiana or the wonderful life and terrible death of Morgan. Written by himself. Illustrated with gritholaphic plates, by Hassan Straightshanks, Turkey. First American Edition, translated from the original Arabic manuscript, by Baron Munchausen, Jr., Boston, 1828.

This item is very rare. Copies have been located in the New York Public Library and in the Library of the Supreme Council at Washington. It is a satire upon the story of Morgan having gone to Smyrna, having no value from a historical standpoint, being simply a literary curiosity.

MORRIS, ROB

-William Morgan, or Political Anti-Masonry, Its Rise, Growth and Decadence. New York, 1883. 12mo. pp. 398. (Cover Title "William Morgan. What the Freemasons say".)

Morris, according to his own statement, began to gather material on the Morgan Affair as early as 1846. As many of those were then living who were personally cognizant of matter pertaining to it, Morris was in far better position to acquire accurate information than any of the later students of the period. It appears that he did accumulate a vast mass of data on the subject, but not being familiar with modern historical methods, did not make the best possible use of this. Much of the contents of this book is given upon his own ipse dixit, and some of his statements must be taken with a liberal grain of salt. While far more accurate than the majority of books of its kind, much of Morris's information was "hearsay", and even second or third hand at that, so that a considerable part of it must be considered as questionable, or at least inconclusive. He incorrectly locates Wells Lodge No. 282 at Batavia (p. 61) but later correctly, at Rochester (pp. 72 and 81).

There is, of course, plenty of material pertaining to the Morgan Affair and the Anti-Masonic Excitement, in the newspapers of the day. Such material must always be taken with caution and considered in the light of the political and religious bias of every such paper. Newspapers are rather ephemeral, and it is seldom that complete files are available. For this reason other sources must generally be depended upon for information. Newspapers, when available, are frequently of much value in establishing particular dates.

—Freemasonry and Odd-Fellowship. An Inquiry whether Christians Should Acquire or Retain Membership in these Fraternities. Syracuse, N. Y., 1862. Second Edition, Syracuse, N. Y., 1873. pp. 47.

Merely a re-hash of old Anti-Masonic writings of from 1826 to 1836. Practically the whole tirade is against Freemasonry, Odd-Fellowship being mentioned but once in the pamphlet.

PRICHARD, SAMUEL

—Masonry Dissected, being a Universal and Genuine Description of all its Branches. With a very curious Broadsheet of the "Freemason's Downfall", with large and curious engraving of the "Scald-Miserables", 1742.

The first edition of this book appeared in 1730. It was one of the very early Masonic exposes. Various other editions have been published, the best known being as follows: 8th Edition, London, 1739, pp. 24; 12th Edition, London, 1745. pp. 28; 20th Edition, London, n.d. pp. 32. There was an edition published in Edinburgh in 1752, and one in New York in 1857.

According to William L. Stone, when Prichard made his revelations of Masonry, there were but three degrees and only one obligation for the whole three, which was "short and comparatively inoffensive". Daynes (The Birth and Growth of the Grand Lodge of England) says that Prichard's "Freemasonry Disected" was first advertised for rale in the "Daily Journal" (London) October 20, 1830, and that by the end of November it was in its fourth edition. This book elicited an anonymous reply, entitled "A Defense of Masonry", which was printed at the end of the 1838 edition of Anderson's Constitutions.

Proceedings of Grand Lodges and Other Masonic Bodies.

As a general rule these are not much utility in the study of Anti-Masonry. The Proceedings from 1827 to 1835 contain some Resolutions and occasionally a defense of the Institution. The Proceedings of the Grand Chapter of the State of New York, for 1827, and the Grand Lodge of Massachusetts for 1871, are of special importance.

Another edition of the same date has pp. 48, v-159. This book is a satire on Joseph Rittner, a prominent Anti-Mason, who, after being twice defeated for the office, became Governor of Pennsylvania.

PUTNAM, ELISHA

—The Crisis or Last Trumpet. An Antidote for Popular Public Opinion, Either in Church or State, Albany, 1847. pp. 319.

The book proper finishes at page 240. The Anti-Masonic portions are contained in Appendix No. 2, "A Letter on the Subject of Freemasonry." pp. 247-249 and Appendix No. 4. "Influence of Freemasonry," pp. 272-277.

These outpourings are the usual vitrolic stuff handed out by Anti-Masons. The writer was evidently not a Mason, but mentions that his opinions of the Order are founded upon a thirty-year observation of the actions, etc. of its members. The letter in Appendix No. 2 is dated Albany, February 10, 1828, and is signed "E. Putnam". Appendix No. 4 has some references to William Morgan.

Renunciations of Masonry.

These were as the leaves of the forest in the height of the Anti-Masonic Excitement. For the most part, those that were ever printed appeared in the various Anti-Masonic papers of the day, but a few of them arrived at the dignity of publication in leaflet or small pamphlet form. The following is a brief list of those which are occasionally found: Rev. Joseph S. Christmas's Renunciation of Masonry, Rev. E. B. Rollins's Renunciation of Masonry, Hiram B. Hopkins's Renunciation of Masonry, Nathaniel Very's Renunciation of Masonry.

RICHARDSON, JABEZ

-Monitor of Freemasonry. New York, 1860.

Many editions have appeared and it is still in print. Richardson was not an Anti-Mason, but left Masonry because, as he said, it was apparently impossible to keep the unworthy out of the lodge. His "Monitor" was published partly to gratify the spirit of inquisitiveness of those outside the Order, and partly to give information to Masons themselves. His own statement, in the preface of the book, explains his position. "More than half of the persons who join Masonic Lodges do not understand anything of the principles of the Order. They go through certain ceremonies, pay their fees, and then forget all about it in a short time. By having authentic details of the proceedings to read at their leisure, they may become Masons in reality."

Miller receiving the Entered Apprentice Degree in an Albany Lodge. Gives date of erection of the Morgan monument at Batavia as 1832 (should be 1882). Also contains this curious statement: "The body of Morgan does not rest under this stone, wherever it may lie. His wife is buried there, and, I am told, one or two of his children."

Robison was Professor of Natural Philosophy, and Secretary to the Royal Society of Edinburgh. This is the most comprehensive collection of information pertaining to Secret Societies in general ever published. Some one hundred pages are devoted to Freemasonry and Allied Organizations. The subject of Anti-Masonry is dealt with on pages 8 to 16, inclusive, and considerable information is given relative to the "Morgan Affair". STONE, WILLIAM L.

-Letters on Masonry and Anti-Masonry: Addressed to John Quincy Adams. New York, 1832. pp. 554-7

By far the best written work of the period. It furnishes an almost perfect example of "damning with faint praise". Assuming to write from an impartial, or even friendly attitude towards the Fraternity, these letters, which first appeared serially in the "New York Commercial Advertiser", and were afterward published in book form, did much to injure Freemasonry. Had the letters in their original form had a larger circulation, or if a book of the type had appeared earlier in the period, they would have doubtless proved much more damaging than they did. Stone was a Mason who had been prominently identified with the work of the Grand Chapter. While he did not make a formal renunciation of Masonry, in his various letters, he condemns it in no uncertain terms, and in the final letter (April 2, 1832) gives some thirteen reasons why the Masonic Order should be abolished, stating that he had attended no Lodge or other Masonic body after the abduction of Morgan was fully established. He repeats the unproven statement that David C. Miller was an Entered Apprentice Mason. Stone undertook a personal investigation of the affidavit of Samuel G. Anderton, and in his Letter XXXIX, conclusively proves it to be a base fabrication. The first of these letters is dated Nov. 20, 1831, there being a total of forty-nine of them.

Incorrectly locates Wells Lodge No. 282 at Batavia, N. Y., and states that William Seaver was the first Master of that Lodge. Seaver was Master at Batavia Lodge No. 433 from 1825 to 1828. Aside from these minor errors, it is one of the best presentations of the subject extant.

Together with a History of the Order of the Eastern Star, and of the Mystic Shrine. Little Rock, Ark. Central Printing Co., 1914. 12mo. pp. 244, and 1 p. index.

Deals with the Morgan Affair on pages 160-168, under the head of "Persecution—Morgan Case". A somewhat sketchy account. Copies largely from Morris and lays much stress on his version of the Whitney confession. States that Morgan, after being denied the privilege of becoming a charter member of the Chapter at Batavia, petitioned for affiliation and was rejected.

VALANCE, HENRY L.

-Alleged Confession of. See Emery, John L.

Differs materially from either Weed's or Morris's version of John Whitney's story. Thurlow Weed, in a letter to Mrs. Harriett Van Cleve, (reproduced in J. Ross Robertson's "History of Freemasonry in Canada") refers to the alleged confession of Henry Valance as "a romance". Tatsch and Erikson reject both the Weed and Morris versions of the Whitney confession. Chubbuck's story, as related by Robertson does not agree with any of the other alleged confessions. In fact, no two of these agree.

This book was published anonymously. The writer makes out a somewhat plausible case by distorting the meaning of various phrases, and by taking single sentences and paragraphs apart from the context.

WEED, THURLOW

-The Facts Stated. Hon. Thurlow Weed on the Morgan Abduction; a Document for the People. Chicago, 1882. pp. 16.

—Autobiography. Being Volume 1 of Authorized Biography published in two volumes, Boston, 1880.

The story of the Morgan Affair and Political Anti-Masonry commences on page 210. The first volume is edited by his daughter, Harriet A. Weed. Volume II. "The Memoirs of Thurlow Weed," Boston, 1884, is edited by Thurlow Weed Barnes. Weed states that William Morgan was a native of Culpeper County, Virginia, born in 1776, that he became a resident of York, Upper Canada (but does not state his occupation while there). Mentions the loss of his property by fire, which resulted in his removal to Rochester, and that in 1822 or 1823 he moved to LeRoy, N. Y., from which place he went to Batavia. Repeats the Avery Allyn version of the Richard Howard story. Gives but brief mention of the third inquest held on the body found at Oak Orchard Creek, in October, 1827, and infers that the proof that it was the body of Timothy Munroe is inconclusive. Gives only a part of the resolutions of the Grand Chapter of the State of New York relative to the Morgan affair. Refers to David C. Miller as an "Entered Apprentice Mason".

Wendel's (3rd) New York Reports.

Contains report of trial of Elihu Mather on the charge of having participated in the abduction of William Morgan. This case ran through several courts and was decided in Mather's favor by the Court of Appeals of New York. As it is typical of many of the cases of Anti-Masonic persecution, it is well worth reading.

WETHERELL, REV. GEORGE

Wetherell was Pastor of a Baptist Church at Hartford, N. Y. (Washington County). He was a seceding Mason. He claimed that on Sept. 27, 1830, when he was absent from home, two men entered his house, armed with a knife, intending to assisinate him. One David Brown was charged with the offense, but when placed on the witness stand at the trial of Brown, Wetherell admitted that William Hale, at whose house he had lodged on the night in question, had absented himself for two hours, taking a butcher knife with him, insisting that he (Wetherell) could not state for what reason without incriminating himself. The alleged outrage was evidently a "rigged up" charge.

WIRT, WILLIAM

—Hon. William Wirt's Letter accepting the Anti-Masonic Nomination for President of the United States. Letter from Cyrus Swan, Esq., of Sharon, Conn., to a Friend. Published by the Anti-Masonic Committee in Connecticut. Hartford, 1832.

This letter is also printed in the Proceedings of the Second United States Anti-Masonic Convention, held at Baltimore, September, 1831. Boston, 1832. Although Wirt was the Anti-Masonic Candidate for President in 1832, he was not otherwise an active Anti-Mason. He evidently accepted the nomination rather reluctantly, and his letter of acceptance was of such a tone that it is rather surprising that his candidacy was approved by the more rabid of the Anti-Masons. Wirt. according to his own statement, had received at least one degree of Masonry, and unless his accepting the Anti-Masonic Party's nomination may be considered as such, it would appear that he never made a formal renunciation of Masonry. Wirt's letters relating to his presidential candidacy are contained in Volume II of "The Life of William Wirt, Attorney General of the United States," by John Pendleton Kennedy. Some little material regarding him is to be found in Weed's "Autobiography," and Seward's "Autobiography," the Proceedings of the Anti-Masonic Convention of 1831, and scattered through the old files of the newspapers of the day. Nile's Register is particularly good on the subject,
